Valuable Letters, Art Are Included

Russell Library at Northwestern State University has acquired a valuable collection of letters, manuscripts, paintings, maps and personal effects of the late artist and naturalist Miss Caroline Dormon.

Miss Dormon developed the 120-acre virgin forest estate where she lived near Saline into a nationally-known biological refuge. The estate, "Briarwood," was left in her will to a Natchitoches trust.

Donald MacKenzie, Northwestern librarian, said the Dormon Collection was presented to NSU by Mrs. A. G. Lawton of Natchez, La., executrix of the estate.

An internationally recognized botanist, ornithologist, horticulturist and painter, Miss Dormon was also the author of six books, including "Wild Flowers of Louisiana," published in 1934, and "Flowers Native to the Deep South," published in 1958.

Miss Dormon was an authority on irises, and she corresponded with iris growers all over the world. She was a fellow of the Royal Horticultural Society of London and was the first woman in the United States to be elected an Associate Member of the Society of American Foresters.

She was also the only woman to serve on the Desoto Expedition Commission, having been appointed to that position by President Franklin D. Roosevelt because of her vast knowledge of American Indians.

The materials acquired by the Northwestern library include an extensive amount of correspondence, both personal and professional, over the past 40 years, a large amount of photographic and pictorial material and her library of books and periodicals.

Also included in the collection are numerous pieces of Indian basketwork and arrowheads. The collection makes a significant addition to the research capabilities of the Louisiana Room and Archives Department of the NSU library.

MacKenzie said the collection will be moved in the fall to the new NSU library.

DR. MARIE DUNN, left, who is retiring as head of the Department of Home Economics, has been presented the Phi Kappa Phi Faculty Award, which goes annually to a teacher for excellence in education. Presenting the award is Mrs. Jane Nahm, an officer in Phi Kappa Phi.

Dormitory Recreation Program Project of AMS Organization

The Associated Men Students organization at Northwestern State University is engaged in a project to provide extensive recreational facilities and entertainment programs for residents of men's dormitories at NSU.

Terry Coburn of Bossier City, president of the AMS, said the programs are being conducted through the cooperation of the various dormitory councils and graduate assistant counselors which are assigned to each residence hall.

This semester, the AMS began a film series and guest speaker series in each dormitory on a regular basis. The films are both educational and entertaining. Guest speakers, including faculty members, clergymen, civic leaders and elected officials, address students in a wide range of subjects.

Dormitories have also been furnished with recreation equipment such as dart boards, table games, basketball, football, soccer, softball and table tennis equipment.

Bicycles are becoming increasingly popular on the NSU campus, and the AMS has provided bike racks for dormitory residents. Barbecue pits and other outdoor cooking facilities are also being installed for male students in NSU dormitories.

In some dormitories, recreation rooms are being set up, complete with extensive game facilities. Color television sets are also being provided for lobbies in each dormitory.

RODERICK J. DYE, senior pre-medicine major from Pickering, has been elected president of the Student Body Association at Northwestern for the 1972-73 school year in a campus-wide election.

Drug Abuse Institute Slated

Northwestern's Department of Sociology and Social Work will conduct a three-week Summer Institute on Drug Abuse beginning June 26 and ending July 14.

Institute director Dr. Millard J. Bienvenu, head of the department, said the program is designed to offer professional training for personnel who are working with the growing problem of youthful drug use.

Expected to participate in the annual institute are area teachers, counselors, law enforcement personnel, parent educators and other persons who deal directly with drug abuse.

Retiring Faculty Members Honored

President and Mrs. Arnold R. Kilpatrick of Northwestern State University hosted a reception recently for 14 members of the NSU faculty and staff who will retire at the end of the current school year.

The reception was attended by faculty members, students and citizens of the community.

Dr. Frederick has served as associate professor of special education since 1967, and Miss Bridges has been assistant professor of library science since 1954. Miss Bridges has also been director of the Louisiana Room for Russell Library at NSU.

Since 1934, Miss Keyser has served as bookkeeper in Russell Library. Mrs. Riley has been assistant director of Northwestern's Shreveport campus of the College of Nursing for the past two years and before that was director of NSU's Alexandria nursing campus. She has been a member of the Northwestern faculty since 1956.

Smith has served for many years as superintendent of the university's automotive shop, and Warren is an automotive mechanic at Northwestern.

NSU Teacher Education Center Featured In National Publication

Northwestern's Teacher Education Center is featured in an article in the current issue of Tone magazine, a national quarterly publication for the commercial building industry.

Dr. T. P. Southerland, dean of the College of Education at Northwestern, said the article includes five photographs of the unique educational facility. Two of the pictures which appear of the NSU building are in full color.

Selected as one of the top four educational facilities in the United States and Canada, the highly-acclaimed building has already been featured in several national publications.

The $2 million facility, which was opened in the fall of 1970, is actually four round buildings under one roof. Two sections of the sprawling structure are two-story.

Tone, in the multi-page feature, points out that the building is revolutionary in design and appearance and is a multi-function facility.

Also in the article is the fact that the building is completely air-conditioned and carpeted and consists of some 82,000 square feet of floor area. Much of the Tone article deals with the buildings's furnishings and equipment, which were recommended by the most advanced research in school design.

Contractor for the building, which was begun in 1968, was Tudor Construction Company of Alexandria. The center, consisting of more than 180 rooms, was designed by DeKeyser-Ponthie and Boutte of Alexandria.

Education officials say the Tone article, say the Teacher Education Center adds a fourth dimension to education in Louisiana. In addition to lectures, observation-participation programs and student teaching experience, the center makes it possible to conduct a program of experimental learning laboratories for research and development of innovations in teaching and learning.

Williams retires as an upholsterer in the NSU carpentry shop.

Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Marler, Mrs. Weller, Self, and Walton have served as supervising teachers in Northwestern's teacher-education program. They have assisted NSU student teachers in various public schools.

Mrs. Sommer has been a Northwestern house director since 1961.

VA AND HUD during April commemorated the fourth anniversary of the U. S. Fair Housing Law (Title VIII, Civil Rights Act of 1968) by calling attention to progress made toward full implementation of the law.

MRS. MARY DELL FLETCHER, assistant professor of English at NSU, has been appointed as a regional judge in the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards Program.

Fort Polk Classes Will Be Increased

President Arnold R. Kilpatrick of Northwestern has announced that NSU will expand its continuing education program at Fort Polk beginning with the summer semester.

Kilpatrick said a regular schedule of classes during the day will be offered by Northwestern at Fort Polk beginning this summer. These courses will be in addition to the night classes already being conducted by NSU at Fort Polk.

Dr. Hoyt Reed, director of the NSU division of continuing education, which will administer the Fort Polk classes, said the expansion of the Northwestern program at the military base will allow military personnel, dependents and civilians in the area to obtain two-year associate degrees at the Fort Polk resident center.

Reed said the basic courses which will be offered at the Fort Polk education center by Northwestern this summer are English 101, Mathematics 106, and Health 102. Persons who desire to attend Northwestern through the Fort Polk center may schedule a full load of 12 hours during the summer term.

Reed said the new day class programs will not interfere with the night classes. This summer, both graduate and undergraduate classes will be offered two nights a week at Fort Polk.

The new classes will begin June 7 and continue through Aug. 2. Costs will be the same as for classes offered on the main campus at Natchitoches. The Fort Polk classes will be taught by regular Northwestern faculty members.

Park Is Selected By Davis Players As Best Actor For The Second Time

For the second consecutive year, Charles Park has been honored by the Davis Players of Northwestern State University as the best actor of the University Theatre season.

Park, a graduate student from Springhill, earned his "Edna" for his performance as Sir Thomas More in "A Man For All Seasons." Last year his award was for his portrayal of King Henry II in "The Lion In Winter."

Also receiving "Ednas" for the second consecutive year were John Etheredge and Barbara Park, each selected as the best performer in a major supporting role. Etheredge, a junior from Joaquin, Tex., was selected for his role as Alfred P. Doolittle in "My Fair Lady," and Mrs. Park, a senior from Shreveport, earned her "Edna" for her performance as Lady Alice More in "A Man For All Seasons."

Last season these two performers earned their "Ednas" for their respective roles as Roy in "The Odd Couple" and Alais in "The Lion In Winter."

As recognition of excellence in acting and technical theatre work, the "Ednas" are named after Dr. Edna West, former chairman of the NSU Speech and Journalism Department. A total of 12 awards were presented Saturday at the annual Davis Players luncheon, which is the culmination of the theatrical season at Northwestern.

Named as best actress in a major role was Sally Graham, a junior from Alexandria. Miss Graham was also chosen as the Outstanding Debator for 1971-72.

Named as best actor in a minor supporting role were Bruce Kalman, a senior from Edison, N. J., and Lawrence Batiste Jr., a junior from Natchitoches.

The best actress in a minor supporting role award went to Anne L'Heureux, a sophomore from Alexandria.

Major technical awards went to Pam Clark, a graduate student from Alexandria, for her work in stage lighting; Clare Moncrief, a sophomore from Wheat Ridge, Colo., for her contributions to stage costuming; and to Kalman, who was cited for his original set design for "The Servant of Two Masters."

Also winning double honors were Charles and Barbara Park. The latter member of this husband-and-wife team was honored for her work in properties in "The Threepenny Opera," while Park was selected by the members of the Davis Players as the individual who contributed most to the overall program of the University Theatre during the 1971-72 season.

VAL MARMILLION, senior pre-law major from Houma, has received the Robert Wilson Award at Northwestern as the student who made the greatest contribution this year to the Student Union program. Marmillion has served for two years as president of the Student Union Governing Board.

New Secretarial Program Offered

Northwestern State University will begin offering this summer a one-year certificate program in secretarial administration designed to help high school graduates qualify for office positions in a minimum of time.

The NSU Department of Business Education and Office Administration in the College of Business will conduct the new curriculum in cooperation with the university's new Vocational Technical Institute.

Dr. Tommy Johnson, head of the Department of Business Education and Office Administration, said students enrolled in the secretarial administration program will take 38 hours of university courses, which will be completed in two regular semesters and a summer term.

Office administration and business courses will include typewriting, stenography, business machines, data processing, business communications and principles of accounting. Full university credit will be granted in all courses pursued during the program, and the credit may be applied toward a degree at a later date if students desire to seek a higher degree.

Students completing the one-year certificate program will be qualified to hold office positions such as clerk-typist, clerk-stenographer, receptionist, data processing typist, keypunch operator, transcribing machine operator or general secretary.

Additional information may be obtained by writing Dr. Tommy Johnson, NSU.

WORK HAS BEEN completed at Northwestern on the Louisiana Sports Hall of Fame, which is housed in Prather Coliseum. The shrine has been paneled and enclosed in glass, and a velvet-covered showcase has been added to the specially-lighted section of the coliseum. The Hall of Fame is a project of the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

George Doherty Is Appointed Head Coach After Gossett Resigns

Has Been On NSU Staff Five Years

George Doherty, defensive line coach at Northwestern State University since 1967, has been elevated to the post of head football coach, according to NSU President Arnold R. Kilpatrick.

Doherty, widely-known in high school and college coaching ranks, succeeds Glenn Gossett, who resigned from his position as Northwestern's head coach and athletic director this week to enter private business.

In charge of the defense at Louisiana Tech for 10 years before coming to Northwestern, Doherty is recognized as one of the state's most capable recruiters.

Before going to Louisiana Tech in 1957, Doherty left indelible marks on the football programs at Stamps, Ark., and Minden High Schools, winning six district championships in nine years at the schools.

A native of Canton, Miss., Doherty began his coaching career at Stamps in 1948 after four years as a professional football player.

Doherty started the football program at Stamps, which was winless in 10 games during its first year of competition. Stamps ran up a 9-2 record the next season to win the district championship.

In 1950, Doherty led the Stamps team to another district title, winning 14 straight games before losing in the state championship finals.

Taking over at Minden in 1951, Doherty inherited a team that had won only one game in three years. After a 4-6 record the first season, Minden went 9-2 in 1952, and won the district championship in 1953 with another 9-2 mark.

Doherty led the Minden team to a 13-1 record and the state championship in 1953. Minden won the district title again in 1955 with an 8-2 record and captured the state title again in 1956, finishing 13-1. Doherty's six-year record at Minden was 56 victories and 14 losses.

In the 10 years that Doherty handled the defense at Louisiana Tech, the Bulldogs won or tied for the Gulf States Conference championship five times. At Northwestern, his defense has established records for rushing defense for a single game, rushing defense for a single season and rushing defense average per game for a season.

In his five years as defensive line coach, Doherty has tutored several outstanding performers, including All-Conference players Walter Edler, Lester Latino, Mike Burrow, Mace Morris and Gerald Malley.

GEORGE DOHERTY - - - New Head Football Coach

At Tech, he coached All-American Tommy Hinton and Joe Hinton and also had numerous defensive players named to All-Conference teams. Six records established by Doherty's defensive units at Tech still stand, including the fewest points allowed in one season - 48 in 1959.

A 1944 graduate of Louisiana Tech, Doherty received his master's degree from George Peabody College for Teachers in 1957.

He was an All-State tackle at Canton High School and went to Tech in 1939, winning All-Conference honors with the Bulldogs in the early 1940's after serving a hitch in the U. S. Army.

Signed to a professional football contract with the old Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League, Doherty was the Rookie Lineman of the Year in the NFL in his first season.

He moved to the Buffalo Bills of the All-American Conference in 1946 and played for two seasons. Doherty was elected team captain both years.

Kilpatrick said in announcing Doherty's appointment, "We are extremely fortunate to be able to go to our own staff to select a man of Coach Doherty's vast knowledge and experience in football. I am happy that he accepted the position, and I feel that George will perpetuate the winning tradition which has been enjoyed by Northwestern's football teams."

Doherty said in accepting the post, "I am grateful to Dr. Kilpatrick and the athletic committee for the confidence they have placed in me. I look forward to the challenge of serving as Northwestern's head coach."

Basketball Camp Slated For July

Coach Tynes Hildebrand has again lined up an all-star cast of coaches for his Sixth annual Northwestern State Basketball Camp.

Two big sessions will be held during this year's camp. The first session will be held July 9-15, while the second session is scheduled for July 16-22.

Three of the 11 coaches already named to work at this year's camp won state championships this season. Ken Ivy of Shreveport Woodlawn won the AAAA state championship and gained national attention, since he won the title by using the services of seven-foot Robert Parish.

Jimmy Leach of Florien won the Class B. title, while Otis Faust of Negreet won the Class C championship.

In addition to these three, Hildebrand said Jimmy Haley of DeRidder, Rick Huckabay of Rapides and Derwood Duke of Natchitoches would also assist in the coaching.

Other coaches who will work at this year's clinic are Phillip Haley of Parkway, Jim Randolph of Zwolle, Jim Russell of Redemptorist of Baton Rouge, Hank Meachum of Haughton and Don Ashworth of Fairview.

"This is one of the best staffs we've ever put together," said Hildebrand.

Assisting Hildebrand will be his own assistant coach, Dale Skinner, who won 255 games while losing 96 during a short high school career that led him to a state championship and two second place finishes in the state tournament.

Jerry Arledge Gets Appointment As Demons' Defensive Line Coach

Jerry Arledge, who for the last three years has been a successful defensive line coach at Fair Park High School in Shreveport, is the newest member of the Northwestern State University football coaching staff.

The appointment of Arledge as defensive line coach at Northwestern was announced Wednesday by NSU head coach George Doherty, who created the job opening this spring when he was elevated to head coach.

Arledge, 30, is familiar with the workings of college football and the coaching situation at Northwestern.

In 1967, he served Northwestern as a graduate assistant, but in the summer of 1968 he joined the Demons full time as defensive and coach, leaving NSU for Fair Park in 1969.

"I'm real excited that I can have Jerry," said Coach Doherty, who coached Arledge when he was gathering in three football letters at Louisiana Tech. "He's done a fine job at Fair Park. When he was here as a graduate assistant and later as one of our coaches, he had a great knowledge of the game."

He's a hard worker with a great personality and he has the ability to do anything he wants. He's a tireless worker."

While Arledge was coaching the defensive ends at Fair Park, the Indians won the reputation as one of the finest defensive teams in District 1-AAAA.

Fair Park led District 1-AAAA in total defense in 1969 and 1971 and in 1970 it ranked second in total defense.

Arledge has coached three all-state and all-Louisiana Prep players during his three years at Fair Park.

In 1969, he coached John King, a defensive tackle who signed with Louisiana State University. In 1970 he coached Charles Battle, who signed with and was a part-time starter this year for the University of Colorado.

This season, he coached two outstanding defensive players, Chuck Berry and Eddie Mahowski. Berry signed with Louisiana Tech and Mahowski went with Northwestern.

Although Berry made all-state and all-prep, Arledge said, "Mahowski probably has more ability than Berry."

Arledge was an all-district guard and tackle in 1959 at North Caddo, his last year of high school football.

He then went to Louisiana Tech for four years, where he played under head coach Joe Aillet and Coach Doherty, who was defensive coach at that time.

JERRY ARLEDGE

After graduating from Tech, Arledge was assistant coach at North Caddo during the 1964-66 seasons. In the fall of 1967, he came to Northwestern as a graduate assistant and in 1968 became defensive end coach for the Demons.

Arledge and his wife, Sally, have three children: Sara, 11; William, 7; Elizabeth, 4.

Five Home Games Set For Football

Northwestern State University will play a 10-game football schedule during the 1972 season, according to new head coach George Doherty.

The Demons, 6-2-1 last year, will play five home games next season and will meet Louisiana Tech University in State Fair Stadium in Shreveport on Oct. 21 for the annual State Fair Classic.

Delta State College of Cleveland, Miss., will play here Oct. 7 for the annual Northwestern Homecoming celebration.

Teams that Northwestern will face at home this year are Stephen F. Austin University of Nacogdoches, Tex., on Sept. 16, Bishop College of Dallas, Tex., on Sept. 23, Delta State on Oct. 7, Southwestern Louisiana on Nov. 11 and Southeastern Louisiana on Nov. 18.

The Demons will play road games Sept. 9 at Weatherford, Okla., against Southwest Oklahoma, Sept. 30 at Northeast Louisiana in Monroe, Oct. 14 at Florence State in Alabama and Nov. 4 at McNeese State in Lake Charles.

Southwest Oklahoma, which finished the 1971 season with an 8-2 record, has won four straight Oklahoma Intercollegiate championships. Last year NSU handed Southwest Oklahoma a 17-10 loss.

Stephen F. Austin of the Lone Star Conference started 11 freshmen last year and has been going after size this recruiting season. Last year the Lumberjacks were 2-8-0.
